Anecdote of Gen. McClellan.

Gen. John B. Magruder told the following incident in the early life of General McClellan:

The fire from the hill of Chapultepec was terrible. Fifty pieces of heavy artillery were massed against my 4 gun battery at point blank range, and in the valley below a regiment of lancers were forming for a charge. Our fire had been slackened, and the men were lying down. A young man sat beside one of the guns amusing himself with picking up pebbles and shooting them out from his hand. The lancers whom I had noticed, and he sprang up saluting. "Your name?" "Lieut. George B. McClellan." "Very well, Lieutenant. Take command of one of these guns and disperse those lancers." The gunners rushed to their pieces. All the great cannon about Chapultepec went roaring. The battle began anew. Worth was sweeping up the activity, the lancers were routed, and the next I saw of McClellan he was smoking a cigarette in the place of Santa Anna, his face as black as a powder keg, and an ugly wound in his arm.

A lady writer blames the men more than the women for the ridiculous fashions now in vogue. She says: "If all men possessing $100,000 and upwards should form a league not to marry any woman who mounted a chignon, how long do you suppose the ugly monstrosities would continue to be in vogue?"

OUR NASHVILLE LETTER.

Election of Public Printers—Vacancies Filled—Visit to Ex-President Polk's Widow—The Railroad Interests—Power of the Lobby.

Correspondence of the CHRONICLE.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 14.

The Legislature is now complete. Within the last few days the two vacant seats in the Senate have been filled, and there are now the full hundred legislating for the people.

ELECTION OF PUBLIC PRINTERS.

The two houses met in joint convention today to elect a Public Printer. Jones, Purvis & Co. were re-elected on the first ballot. The Republicans voted for Thos. Waters, of the Tennessee Tribune. Jones, Purvis & Co. embrace the West Tennessee Whig and Tribune, Knoxville Press and Herald, Memphis Press, Republican Banner and Union and American. Of course there were but two things for the Democrats to do—to defeat Jones, Purvis & Co., and thus repudiate the whitewashing majority report, or to re-elect Jones, Purvis & Co., and thus endorse the majority report. The Democrats have drawn an elephant. Now let them feed him.

VISIT TO MRS. PRESIDENT POLK.

The General Assembly made their biennial visit of respect to Mrs. President Polk today. Mrs. Polk was looking better than at the last visit, and she and Mrs. Fall, who "did the honors," recognized gentlemen presented more than a year ago, and not seen since. Such powers of memory are truly wonderful. But Mrs. Polk is altogether a most extraordinary woman, extraordinary alike for her mental and moral qualities, her beauties of person, still lingering like sweet memories of her charming youth, and her excellence in all those graces that adorn the life of the noble. Wine, cake, fruit and other delicate refreshments, intermixed with the smiles and pleasant voices of a few entertaining ladies, with the portraits of the great looking down from the walls, all combined to make the occasion exceedingly delightful, and to imbued the recollection thereof inefficably into the memory of all who had the good fortune to be present. Both Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Fall possess the rare and charming faculty of making strangers feel perfectly at home. Verily our American ladies are perfect type of womanhood, possessed of all the beauty, grace and ease of the purest nobility without the hauteur and appearance of condescension too often observed in ladies of rank.

THE RAILROADS AGAIN.

A resolution was introduced into the House yesterday, and one into the Senate today, in reference to the fees claimed by the counsel for the State in the Railroad suits. These attorneys claim $24,000 each in bonds, and have had a lien declared on $78,000 in bonds to secure these fees. The most intense feeling of indignation is manifested in the Legislature, and all that can be done to save the tax-payers will be done. The last Legislature limited the compensation of these attorneys to two thousand dollars; and an attempt is now made to show that the act containing this limitation was not constitutionally enacted. The truth is the action of these attorneys in asking for a lien on these bonds, and the action of the Court in granting it, could only mean one of two things—that the State was dishonest or was insolvent. In either event this action of the counsel and the Court, here at the Capital, at the very doors of the State Treasury, was as direct and terrible as the State could make as the act of the last Legislature reducing taxes to twenty cents on the hundred dollars.

A great deal has been said about the wisdom of selling the State's interest in the railroads; but the manner in which some of these roads have been sold is unfortunate. If the bill to guarantee these sales now in the Senate on its last reading before the House, I predict that the State will be obliged to pay out more money than she has received from these roads. New suits are being brought every day, or being prepared, both in the State and the United States courts. The stockholders, creditors and mortgagees are buzzing terribly, and the State will soon feel the sting. When I look around the Senate and the House and see the lobby at work, I can only exclaim: "May God help the tax-payers!"

The influence of the lobby is almost irresistible. Mr. This and Mr. That, Col. So and Col. Thus, General Which and General What, are always on hand, working cunningly and ceaselessly, and before a member knows it he is convinced or committed.

Now, the railroad bill before spoken of, is claimed to have been drawn in the interests of the State, and for the benefit of the State. But if you were to see the railroad men, and railroad influences, brought to secure the passage of that bill you would at once say that bill is for the benefit of a Railroad Ring. And so it is. The passage of that bill will cost the State hundreds of thousands of dollars in the case of the Northwestern Road alone. Senator Gibson openly denounced the lobby a few days ago, and declared they were stronger than the Legislature, and were often listened to than the people. Some members think it is in bad taste to insinuate that members are influenced by the lobby and say that the lobby is composed of honorable gentlemen. But I repeat, the great fact stares us in the face. The lobby is stronger than the people. "Yours."

TECHNICAL EDUCATION IN RUSSIA.—Difficulty having been experienced in Russia in obtaining skilled labor for the construction and management of the different railway services, the subject of technical education is engaging the attention of the Government. To obviate the need of foreign labor, the Minister of Travel has written to the different boards of direction to suggest that all railway companies should subscribe a sum, calculated according to the scale of their mileage, which should be devoted to the organization of schools, by means of which a strictly technical education might hereafter supply the country with the kind of skilled labor in which it is now so deficient. This appeal met with an immediate response. A capital of 155,000 roubles has already been subscribed. These schools will be presided over by representatives from the Boards of Direction of the different railway companies, at the same time that they will be ostensibly under State management.

A Wisconsin Justice of the Peace granted himself a divorce.

CONVENTION OF CONDUCTORS.

The Convention assembled at Hooley's Opera House, in Chicago, on the 4th of October, and remained in session two days. Nearly three hundred delegates, representing the principal railroads in the country, were in attendance, Captain Charles Toms representing the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Road.

The annual address was delivered by Mr. W. G. Sears, of the Michigan Southern Railroad. It was an able effort and elicited great applause. On the subject of mutual insurance, we take the following extracts from Mr. Sears' address:

"The peculiar position of railroad conductors, and the salaries received by them, preclude the possibility of their accumulating beyond a reasonable competency. To provide for their families in case of death or injury to their natural protectors; to relieve the mind of the wife and mother of all anxiety for the future of herself and children; to influence those who are wont to waste their substance in luxury to a more prudent, economical course of living; the Railroad Conductors' Life Insurance Company of the United States and Canada has been organized.

"The poverty and suffering of widows and orphans, with cold and cheerless prospects, worn with excessive toil, and scanty subsistence and corroding anxiety, are a searing commentary upon the evil of neglecting this beneficent provision. United and faithful in the discharge of our respective duties, we may boldly defy difficulties and ensure a perpetuity to our institution. Disunited and unfaithful, we shall become an easy prey to designing men."

A BLOODYTHIRSTY VILLAIN.

He Attempts Wholesale Assassination—Two of His Victims in the Hospital.

The bloodiest affair that has ever occurred in the neighborhood of Memphis, was enacted on board of the Sussie Silver, lying at our wharf Monday night. At a late hour a number of white men were sitting around the stove to keep themselves warm. One of the number named Johnson got up to go to bed, and told another white man to take his seat. Before, however, the white man had time to sit down, a hideous looking negro named Owen, with a face like a large cocoon, and lips similar to sides of rusty bacon, planked himself right in the chair. This sort of indignity and insult could not be borne by people with much less spirit than those to whom it was offered. A quarrel ensued. The negro pulled out a big knife and proceeded to carve indiscriminately.

He cut one man in the breast right over the heart, he nearly severed the thigh of another man, and cut and hacked a third in all directions. He commenced the business without ceremony and carried it on with such vigor that there was no possibility of stopping him until the damage was done; and, had not the knife slipped out of his hand, it is within the range of possibility that he would have killed at least half a dozen men. He is certainly the most sanguinary being of the human mould that ever sailed on the Mississippi. He was arrested and locked up in the Adam street station house. The names of the injured parties are Pat. Ryan, Thomas Halligan and George Ross. The murderous negro is now in jail, having failed to procure three thousand dollars' bond before the recorder yesterday morning.—Memphis Appeal, 15th.

THE symptoms of liver complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general costive, some alternating with diarrhoea, debility, and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the Liver with
